Monetary Policy Statement (MPS) Snapshot: Sep 2022

What did we decide?

We increased the OPR from 2.25% to 2.50%

- The economy is stronger
- It doesn't need large support like it did during the pandemic

What's happening in the economy?

The Malaysian economy continues to grow

- People are finding more jobs, which also help household spending
- Big projects are in progress, which lift investment activity
- Borders are open again, leading to higher tourism activity

We are seeing higher prices because of global factors (like high oil and food prices) and stronger household and business spending

How do we see the economy in the future?

The economy will continue to grow

- Any changes to the OPR will depend on how strongly the economy and prices grow
- Things could still shift. Let's say global growth slows and domestic policies change ... that could affect our economy

Our goal is to keep inflation low and stable while supporting sustainable growth
